Cafe below, health studio above

As Byron continues to boom, Easy Street is poised to become the epicentre for the new economy in this popular town.

Reflecting the lifestyle that made Byron famous, Easy Street will be home to a mix of businesses including fashion boutiques, yoga studios, designer showrooms, tech start-ups, wellness centres, creative agencies, health professionals, local makers, international lifestyle brands and a hole-in-the-wall coffee spot. All of them surrounded by lush gardens and native landscaping.

Located in the heart of Habitat – a little oasis within one of the most beautiful places on Earth – Easy Street is a stroll from the beach (lunchtime surfs!) and 10-minute cycle to town.

The light-filled main entry

Location

The beaches might be the face of Byron Bay, but the Arts & Industry Estate has always been its soul.

Originally a small outpost, occupied by an intriguing blend of old school tradies, bohemian artists and revolutionary surfboard shapers, the Arts & Industry Estate has evolved to become the creative and commercial heart of Byron with several world-famous fashion labels and innovative businesses dotted around its bustling streets.

As for town, you've heard it before, but Byron Bay really is a special place. Having evolved from humble coastal village to hippy mecca to world-renowned holiday destination, it continues to draw people in with a unique blend of small-town charm and big city energy.

The perfect waves, great food, international music, pristine rainforests and genuine community are pretty good too.

Getting here is easy with Ballina airport (with direct flights from Melbourne and Sydney) and the Gold Coast international airport 20 and 40 minutes away.

The Heart of Habitat

Easy Street runs through the middle of Habitat, a cleverly designed village in Byron Bay, where people get to live, work and play, all in one place.

Over 20 years in the making, Habitat combines the best of old-school Byron (community, creativity, respect for the environment) with the latest in design and thinking (renewable energy, hybrid live + work spaces) along with plenty of good times (bars, cafes, fitness, shopping) to create a special little place within one of the most idyllic locations in Australia.

Already home to over 50 businesses – from architects and designers to real estate agents and naturopaths – Habitat is pumping, and the addition of Easy Street will only generate more energy and attention, boosting the entire neighbourhood.

Kind words

Habitat is already home to a thriving community of like-minded businesses and is a well-known shopping destination for tourists and locals alike. We think it's the best retail and business precinct in Byron, but don't take our word for it.

Here's what some of our tenants have to say...

"What I love about Habitat is the community, which really support you as a business owner."

Tristan Grier
Owner
Barrio restaurant

"To anyone thinking of moving their business to Habitat, I'd say ditch the corporate offices and big shopping centres and come to paradise."

Emma Henderson
Co-founder
The Beach People

"We initially chose Habitat because we didn't want to deal with the traffic in Byron centre, but it's really delivered on work life balance too. Having access to great food, coffee, fitness options, a pool, and being so close to the beach works for us."

Colin Hussey CEO
A Perfect Stay

"Best thing about Habitat is being around the incredible landscaping every day. In bigger projects, landscaping gets sidelined all too often, but here it's been thought about deeply and well executed."

Dominic Finlay-Jones
Principal
DFJ Architects

"The calibre of brands and businesses at Habitat was really important to us."

Investment Opportunities

Whether you're looking to own or lease a shop, showroom, office or studio space for your health & wellness business, Easy Street has something for everyone.

Retail

With hardwood framed shop fronts, polished concrete floors, covered walkways, cobblestone footpaths, and over-the-top lush subtropical landscaping and green walls, Easy Street will be the most inspiring retail precinct in Byron.

Health & Wellness

To feel good, you need room to breathe. Because Easy Street was designed and built from the ground up, our health and wellness spaces all feature natural light and ventilation, so people can thrive.

Commercial

All real estate is in short supply around Byron, but brand-new commercial space is rarest of all. Perched on the second and third floors, capturing views and sea breezes, this is an unparalleled opportunity to lease or own commercial in the dreamiest of locations. Additionally, multiple spaces are available to accommodate businesses of any size.

Food & Drink

Every street needs a corner where people can meet up and connect while nibbling on something healthy and delicious. Offering a centrally located cafe, Easy Street will build on Habitat's reputation as a destination for great food in a lush, relaxed environment.

Landscaping

Continuing our commitment to landscaping – a valued design feature woven throughout Habitat – Easy Street will feature our most spectacular gardens and green spaces yet.

Along with upgrades to the nearby recreational precinct, and green screens growing up building sides, the hero of the extensive Easy Street landscaping will be the native subtropical creek bed that wanders from end to end. A boulevard of awesomeness (according to the architect) it'll grow to become a living work of art created with a combo of ancient volcanic rocks and hundreds of native plants, all of which have been purposely grown and handpicked from a nursery near Nimbin.

Inspired by the beautiful creeks you find hidden in Byron's hinterland, let us take you for a quick tour.

We start at the eastern end, where a deep swale has been carved alongside the street. Large moss-covered boulders of basalt form the edges with smooth river stones lining the creek bed. Walking under dappled light from the weeping paperbarks and flame trees overhead, steppingstones appear underfoot to help cross from side to side. Halfway along, there's a honeyeater hiding in a grove of banksia and people sitting on the overhanging deck in front of the cafe. Some kids pick finger limes from the native edible gardens, while their friends jump along the rocks ahead, which have morphed into impressive slabs of sandstone. Eventually reaching the other end, you're greeted by a mob of grass trees and Bangalow palms, all gathered around a billabong. It looks like the real thing and whenever rain starts falling and water begins flowing gently and slowly, it does a nice job of mimicking the sounds of the rainforest too.

Sustainability

There's no such thing as being truly sustainable when you're building things from steel, bricks and concrete. We get that. But that hasn't stopped us from trying to make Easy Street an environmentally friendly place. Here's some things we're proud of:

We designed Easy Street with an embedded energy network, which means the power created by the solar system across our rooftops stays within the precinct, allowing Easy Street to run on hyper-local green energy.

We've thought a lot about water. As a result, our gardens are fed with recycled water from the local treatment plant, our toilets operate on rainwater and all storm water is channelled through cleverly designed swales into natural reed beds (little gardens with plants) which balance the acidity before slowly releasing it back into our ecosystem.

Knowing the future of transport is electric, Easy Street has a number of dedicated charging stations for electric vehicles. Furthermore, we partnered with Popcar, the car share service, so people can get rid of their cars altogether, only paying for a vehicle when they need it.
